Characteristics of Natural Shade Materials

Nature's Beauty

There simply is no substitute for the beauty of the materials used in Natural Shades. The colors and textures of bamboo, reeds, grass, jute and rattan have a distinct character and one-of-a-kind look that synthetic materials can't match.

However, with character come inherent natural properties that may influence the appearance of the finished shade. Recognizing and understanding the characteristic traits of natural materials will provide more satisfaction and enjoyment by knowing why each shade is truly unique!

Characteristics

Asymmetry

Materials used in Natural Shades are grown and harvested naturally. Variations in shape, thickness, texture and graining are to be expected from Mother Nature. While providing personality to each shade, these variations create asymmetry in the weave that may alter the appearance of the finished shade. Specifically, you may notice:

- Uneven spacing or gaps – differences in bamboo or reed shapes and thicknesses can create uneven spacing or gaps in the weave
- Pattern changes or gaps – different thicknesses of grassy materials, tied knots and splices can create visual disruptions in the weave pattern or gaps in the weave
- Length differences – variations in bamboo thicknesses, bamboo joints or reed sizes can create length differences from one side of the shade to the other
- Bowing or arching – different drying rates of bamboo fibers on one side and skin on the other side of the bamboo slat can create a bowing or arching effect in the finished shade.

All materials used are hand-selected to strict specifications to minimize variations. These variations are not considered flaws, but rather are normal characteristics to be expected from natural-grown materials.

Color

Mellowing with age, bamboo, reeds, jute, grasses and other natural materials will change slightly in color over time. Depending on material composition, they may lighten or darken due to direct sunlight or other climatic conditions. Uncolored bamboo will experience the most color shift, changing from a green color at harvest to a yellow-brown color over three to six months. Color matches from shade to shade cannot be guaranteed as these are natural reactions to aging.

Stretching

The natural elasticity of yarns combined with the weight of the woven material may cause shades to stretch upwards of 1" to 1½" after installation. This is particularly noticeable on inside mount shades or shades that extend from ceiling to floor. Ordering the shade shorter than needed will help compensate for stretching over time. Note that the addition of edge banding will not only add a truly personal and decorative touch, but will also help to control the stretching.

Every material used in Natural Shades comes with its own one-of-a-kind personality. By understanding these inherent traits of natural material, we hope that you will appreciate each unique characteristic and will enjoy your shades for many years to come!

How to Place an Order: Natural Drapes

How to Place an Order

The following must be specified to place your order:

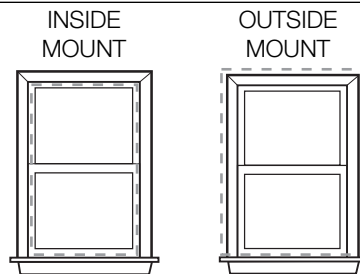

1. Quantity of Blinds

2. Size of Blinds: WIDTH first, then HEIGHT.

See page 7 for "How to Measure" instructions

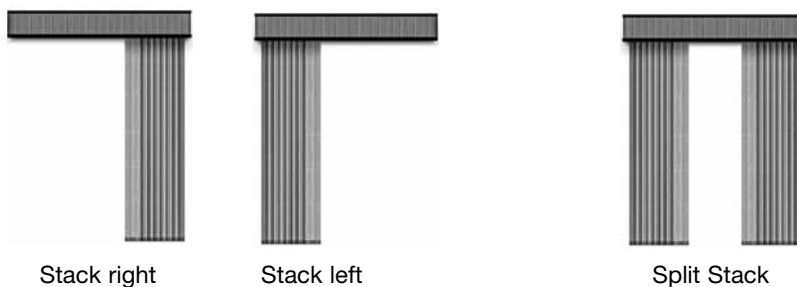

3. Inside or Outside Mount

For inside window frame installation, mark order "Inside Mount". For outside window frame installation, mark order "Outside Mount".

Specialty Options

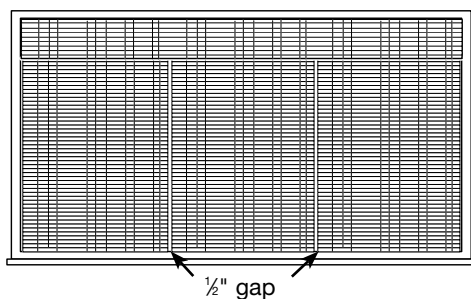

Multiple Shades on One Headrail

1. Measure overall width of area to be covered.
2. Measure width of the area each shade is to cover; measure and specify left shade first, continuing to the right; factory will allow a minimum of $\frac{1}{2}$ " between shades for operating clearance.
3. Total width of all shades, plus clearances, must equal the overall headrail width.
4. To measure height, use standard inside or outside measuring directions (see page 5).
5. For patio doors, measure height to within 1" of the floor either from the ceiling or a point high enough above door to provide clearance; cords should be on outside edges of shades; outside mount (wall) installation is recommended for patio doors.

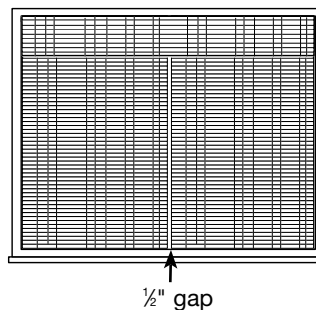

NOTES:

- Each shade operates separately
- Shade controls can be on the right or left at no charge
 - Standard for two on one headrail: Left panel, left control and right panel, right control
 - Standard for three on one headrail: Left panel, left control; middle panel, right control; and right panel, right control
- Horizontal slat alignment between shades is not guaranteed
